

Privacy Policy

This Privacy Policy explains how information is collected, used, and protected on www.paulneiffer.com. By using this site, you agree to the practices described below.

Information Collected

Information You Provide: This site may collect personal information that you voluntarily submit, such as:

- Your name
- Email address
- Phone number
- Information shared through contact forms or email

This information is used solely for communication purposes.

Automatically Collected Information: Like most websites, this site may automatically collect non-personal data such as:

- Browser type
- Device information
- Pages visited
- General usage statistics

This data helps improve the website experience but does not identify you personally.

How Your Information Is Used: Any information collected is used for:

- Responding to inquiries
- Providing requested information
- Improving website content and functionality

Your information is not sold, rented, or shared with third parties.

Third-Party Links: This website may link to external sites, articles, or resources. Paul is not responsible for the privacy practices or content of those third-party websites.

Data Security: Reasonable measures are taken to protect your information. However, no method of online transmission or storage is completely secure, and absolute security cannot be guaranteed.

Children's Privacy: This site is not intended for children under 13, and no information is knowingly collected from children.

Changes to This Policy: This Privacy Policy may be updated periodically.

Continued use of the site after changes are posted indicates acceptance of the updated policy.
